

Posters for Heros

Help Spread Positive Messages

Communications, such as posters, allow us to give non-verbal communication that uses the sense of sight. That means we can send messages through pictures and words. As global young citizens, spreading positive messages is important, especially right now.

Imagine you're a doctor on their way to work, you're feeling pretty overwhelmed right now as lots of people are sick and you're working extra hard to help. you walk past a window and there's a message there which makes you feel good, like someones got your back.

THE PROJECT:

Create a poster with a positive message. For all the heroes out there, perhaps it could be for a nurse, a delivery driver, the milkman, a teacher or maybe it's for everyone. Make it eye catching and bold and use less than 10 words. Use the letters to create your words and the coloured shapes or coloured paper if you have some to create your design. Put it in your window and use your message to spread positivity to the world outside.

Remember, your voice is important. You are never too small to make a difference.
